

Quarterly Commentary

The last quarter has seen a repeat of the trade ‘talks’ between China and the US. Brexit is its usual negative self and the Bank of England put up interest rates. The markets have however not fallen in disarray but have remained stoically resilient.

The SP 500 reached an all time high at the end of August but the other markets did not get back to the high points they reached at the end of January.

More ethical funds were launched but a number of these are predominantly greenwashing and fell outside of our parameters.

Notes on divestment

The Medium Adventurous Portfolio is fully divested from Funds that invest in Fossil Fuel Extraction or Exploration Companies. Purposeful.Money have undertaken sufficient research and due diligence to ensure that the portfolio meets this standard. Ongoing due diligence will be conducted on a quarterly basis to ensure that this standard is maintained. Whilst every effort will be taken to ensure that the portfolio is fully divested it is possible that in periods between due diligence checks one of the funds may invest in a Fossil Fuel Extraction or Exploration Company. As soon as Purposeful.Money are aware of such an investment, or when this is highlighted at the quarterly audit, the Fund will be removed from the Portfolio.

The Portfolio is divested from all companies that are directly involved in the exploration or extraction of Fossil Fuels. At this point however there may remain some investment in infrastructure companies such as those that are involved in the transportation of Fossil Fuels.

What is Asset Allocation?

Asset allocation is the practice of diversifying assets between different asset classes. Asset allocation has been recognised as a very important part of the process of building a portfolio. In fact, a number of studies have found that the decision as to how to divide up a portfolio into several classes is more important than the process of choosing the actual stocks, bonds, and funds that are owned.

The asset allocation is determined by the amount of risk someone is prepared to accept and also the amount of time to let the investment grow. To assist us in the process of asset allocation we select the most appropriate 'model' asset allocation from a series of standard models. It is important that the portfolio is monitored and reviewed on an ongoing basis to ensure that it remains in line with this 'model'. For further information please see our portfolio flowchart.

Information on performance

Past performance is not a guide to future performance. The value of investments and any income from them can fall and you may get back less than you invested. If you invest in currencies other than your own, fluctuations in currency value will mean that the value of your investment will move independently of the underlying asset.
